ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Program Overview

The Community Placemaking program empowers communities to collaboratively create and transform public spaces into vibrant, inclusive and thriving places. By offering financial assistance and guidance, the program encourages innovative initiatives that foster positive social, economic, and environmental impacts.

The guidelines have been modelled on principles outlined in the book “How to Turn a Place Around” by the Project for Public Spaces. Rooted in community engagement, authenticity, and user-centred design, this resource emphasizes creating vibrant public spaces that reflect local identity and foster social interactions, economic vibrancy, and quality of life.

This program is currently funded by Island Coastal Economic Trust (the Trust) with partnered funding from 4VI.
